Amazon AWS Certified Solutions Architect - Associate (SAA-C02) Sample Questions (Q952-Q957):

NEW QUESTION # 952

A company has an on-premises application that generates a large amount of time-sensitive data that is backed up to Amazon S3. The application has grown and there are user complaints about internet bandwidth limitations. A solutions architect needs to design a long-term solution that allows for both timely backups to Amazon S3 and with minimal impact on internet connectivity for internal users.

Which solution meets these requirements?

- A. Establish a new AWS Direct Connect connection and direct backup traffic through this new connection.
- B. Establish AWS VPN connections and proxy all traffic through a VPC gateway endpoint
- C. Submit a support ticket through the AWS Management Console Request the removal of S3 service limits from the account.
- D. Order daily AWS Snowball devices Load the data onto the Snowball devices and return the devices to AWS each day.

Answer: A

Explanation:

To address the issue of bandwidth limitations on the company's on-premises application, and to minimize the impact on internal user connectivity, a new AWS Direct Connect connection should be established to direct backup traffic through this new connection. This solution will offer a secure, high-speed connection between the company's data center and AWS, which will allow the company to transfer data quickly without consuming internet bandwidth.

NEW QUESTION # 953

An ecommerce company wants to launch a one-deal-a-day website on AWS. Each day will feature exactly one product on sale (or a period of 24 hours. The company wants to be able to handle millions of requests each hour with millisecond latency during peak hours.

Which solution will meet these requirements with the LEAST operational overhead?

- A. Use an Amazon S3 bucket to host the website's static content Deploy an Amazon CloudFront distribution. Set the S3 bucket as the origin Use Amazon API Gateway and AWS Lambda functions for the backend APIs Store the data in Amazon DynamoDB
- B. Use Amazon S3 to host the full website in different S3 buckets Add Amazon CloudFront distributions Set the S3 buckets as origins for the distributions Store the order data in Amazon S3
- C. Deploy the full website on Amazon EC2 instances that run in Auto Scaling groups across multiple Availability Zones Add an Application Load Balancer (ALB) to distribute the website traffic Add another ALB for the backend APIs Store the data in Amazon RDS for MySQL
- D. Migrate the full application to run in containers Host the containers on Amazon Elastic Kubernetes Service (Amazon EKS) Use the Kubernetes Cluster Autoscaler to increase and decrease the number of pods to process bursts in traffic Store the data in Amazon RDS for MySQL

NEW QUESTION # 954

A company has a legal requirement to store point-in-time copies of its Amazon RDS PostgreSQL database instance in facilities that are at least 200 miles apart.

Use of which of the following provides the easiest way to comply with this requirement?

- A. Multiple Availability Zone snapshot copy
- B. Cross-region read replica
- C. Cross-region snapshot copy
- D. Multiple Availability Zone read replica

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 955

A company hosts historical weather records in Amazon S3. The records are downloaded from the company's website by way of a URL that resolves to a domain name Users all over the world access this content through subscriptions. A third-party provider hosts the company's root domain name, but the company recently migrated some of its services to Amazon Route 53 The company wants to consolidate contracts, reduce latency for users, and reduce costs related to serving the application to subscribers.

Which solution meets these requirements?

- A. Create a web distribution on Amazon CloudFront to serve the S3 content for the application Create a CNAME record in a Route 53 hosted zone that points to the CloudFront distribution, resolving to the application's URL domain name.

- B. Create an A record in a Route 53 hosted zone for the application. Create a Route 53 traffic policy for the web application, and configure a geolocation rule. Configure health checks to check the health of the endpoint and route DNS queries to other endpoints if an endpoint is unhealthy.
- C. Create a web distribution on Amazon CloudFront to serve the S3 content for the application. Create an ALIAS record in the Amazon Route 53 hosted zone that points to the CloudFront distribution, resolving to the application's URL domain name.
- D. Create an A record in a Route 53 hosted zone for the application. Create a Route 53 traffic policy for the web application, and configure a geoproximity rule. Configure health checks to check the health of the endpoint and route DNS queries to other endpoints if an endpoint is unhealthy.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 956

A company will run different data analytic jobs on large petabyte-scale datasets, using standard SQL and existing business intelligence tools. The data is mostly structured, but part of the data is unstructured and resides in Amazon S3.

What technology should be used to support this use case?

- A. Amazon DynamoDB with Amazon DynamoDB Accelerator (DAX)
- B. Amazon Redshift with Amazon Redshift Spectrum
- C. Amazon ElastiCache for Redis with cluster mode enabled.
- D. An Amazon Aurora database cluster with 15 replicas distributed across Availability Zones.

Answer: B
