Splunk Core Certified Advanced Power User Sample Questions (Q58-Q63):

NEW QUESTION # 58

Repeating JSON data structures within one event will be extracted as what type of fields?

- A. Single value

- B. Multivalue
- C. Mvindex
- D. Lexicographical

Answer: B

Explanation:

When Splunk encounters repeating JSON data structures in an event, they are extracted as multivalue fields. These allow multiple values to be stored under a single field, which is common with arrays in JSON data.

NEW QUESTION # 59

What happens when a bucket's bloom filter predicts a match?

- A. The filter is deleted from the indexer and wiped from memory.
- B. Field extractions are used to filter through the .tsidx files from that bucket.
- C. Event data is read from the .tsidx files using the postings from that bucket.
- D. Event data is read from journal.gz using the .tsidx files from that bucket.

Answer: D

Explanation:

In Splunk, a bloom filter is a probabilistic data structure used to quickly determine whether a given term or value might exist in a dataset, such as an index bucket. When a bloom filter predicts a match, it indicates that the term may be present, prompting Splunk to perform a more detailed check.

Specifically, when a bloom filter predicts a match:

Event data is read from journal.gz using the .tsidx files from that bucket.

This means that Splunk proceeds to read the raw event data stored in the journal.gz files, guided by the index information in the .tsidx files, to confirm the presence of the term.

NEW QUESTION # 60

When would a distributable streaming command be executed on an indexer?

- A. If all preceding search commands are executed on the indexer.
- B. If all preceding search commands are executed on the indexer, and a streamstats command is used.
- C. If any of the preceding search commands are executed on the search head.
- D. If some of the preceding search commands are executed on the indexer, and a timerchart command is used.

Answer: A

Explanation:

A distributable streaming command would be executed on an indexer if all preceding search commands are executed on the indexer, enhancing search efficiency by processing data where it resides.

NEW QUESTION # 61

When possible, what is the best choice for summarizing data to improve search performance?

- A. Data model acceleration
- B. Summary indexing
- C. Report acceleration
- D. Use the fieldsummary command.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Summary indexing is the most effective method for summarizing data to improve search performance. It stores precomputed results, allowing faster retrieval and processing compared to running the same search repeatedly.

NEW QUESTION # 62

Why is the transaction command slow in large splunk deployments?

- A. transaction or runs on each Indexer in parallel.
- B. transaction runs a hidden eval to format fields.
- C. It forces the search to run in fast mode.
- D. It forces all event data to be returned to the search head.

Answer: D

Explanation:

The transaction command can be slow in large Splunk deployments because it requires all event data relevant to the transaction to be returned to the search head (Option C). This process can be resource-intensive, especially for transactions that span a large volume of data or time, as it involves aggregating and sorting events across potentially many indexers before the transaction logic can be applied.
