Splunk Core Certified Advanced Power User Sample Questions (Q89-Q94):

NEW QUESTION # 89

Which of the following is an event handler action?

- A. Run an eval statement based on a user clicking a value on a form.
- B. Cancel all jobs based on the number of search job results captured.
- C. Set a token to select a value from the time range picker.
- D. Pass a token from a drilldown to modify index settings.

Answer: A

Explanation:

An event handler action can trigger an eval statement based on a user's interaction with a form. This makes dashboards interactive by allowing real-time updates based on user input, modifying the data presented dynamically.

NEW QUESTION # 90

Which stats function is used to return a sorted list of unique field values?

- A. count
- B. values
- C. list
- D. sum

Answer: B

Explanation:

The values function in the stats command returns a sorted list of unique values from a specified field, making it helpful for summarizing and analyzing data.

NEW QUESTION # 91

Why is the transaction command slow in large splunk deployments?

- A. It forces all event data to be returned to the search head.
- B. It forces the search to run in fast mode.
- C. transaction or runs on each Indexer in parallel.
- D. transaction runs a hidden eval to format fields.

Answer: A

Explanation:

The transaction command can be slow in large Splunk deployments because it requires all event data relevant to the transaction to be returned to the search head (Option C). This process can be resource-intensive, especially for transactions that span a large volume of data or time, as it involves aggregating and sorting events across potentially many indexers before the transaction logic can be applied.

NEW QUESTION # 92

What is one way to troubleshoot dashboards?

- A. Delete the dashboard and start over.
- B. Run the | previous_searches command to your SPL queries.
- C. Go to the Troubleshooting dashboard of the Searching and Reporting app.
- D. Create an HTML panel using tokens to verify that they are set.

Answer: D

Explanation:

When troubleshooting dashboards in Splunk, it's essential to verify that tokens are being set and passed correctly, especially when using dynamic inputs. Creating an HTML panel that displays token values can help confirm that tokens are populated as expected. For example, you can add a panel with the following Simple XML to display token values:

xml
Copy
<panel>
<html>
Token value: $your_token$
</html>
</panel>

This approach allows you to see the current value of your_token directly on the dashboard, aiding in debugging issues related to token usage.

NEW QUESTION # 93

A report named "Linux logins" populates a summary index with the search string `sourcetype=linux_secure | sitop src_ip user`. Which of the following correctly searches against the summary index for this data?

- A. `index=summary sourcetype="linux_secure" | top src_ip user`
- B. `index=summary sourcetype="linux_secure" | stats count by src_ip user`
- C. `index=summary search_name="Linux logins" | top src_ip user`
- D. `index=summary search_name="Linux logins" | stats count by src_ip user`

Answer: C

Explanation:

When searching a summary index, using `search_name="Linux logins"` ensures you retrieve data generated by that specific report. Option B correctly searches the summary index by referencing the report's name.
