CompTIA Security+ Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q170-Q175):

NEW QUESTION # 170

Which of the following is a type of vulnerability that involves inserting scripts into web-based applications in order to take control of the client's web browser?

- A. On-path attack
- B. Zero-day exploit
- C. SQL injection
- D. Cross-site scripting

Answer: D

Explanation:

Cross-site scripting (XSS) vulnerabilities allow attackers to inject malicious scripts into a website, which are then executed in the user's web browser, potentially leading to data theft or session hijacking. References: Security+ SY0-701 Course Content, Security+ SY0-601 Book.

NEW QUESTION # 171

Which of the following would be the best way to block unknown programs from executing?

- A. Host-based firewall
- B. Application allow list.
- C. Access control list
- D. DLP solution

Answer: B

Explanation:

An application allow list is a security technique that specifies which applications are permitted to run on a system or a network. An application allow list can block unknown programs from executing by only allowing the execution of programs that are explicitly authorized and verified.

An application allow list can prevent malware, unauthorized software, or unwanted applications from running and compromising the security of the system or the network. The other options are not the best ways to block unknown programs from executing:

Access control list: This is a security technique that specifies which users or groups are granted or denied access to a resource or an object. An access control list can control the permissions and privileges of users or groups, but it does not directly block unknown programs from executing. Host-based firewall: This is a security device that monitors and filters the incoming and outgoing network traffic on a single host or system. A host-based firewall can block or allow network connections based on predefined rules, but it does not directly block unknown programs from executing.

DLP solution: This is a security system that detects and prevents the unauthorized transmission or leakage of sensitive data. A DLP solution can protect the confidentiality and integrity of data, but it does not directly block unknown programs from executing.

NEW QUESTION # 172

A company wants to get alerts when others are researching and doing reconnaissance on the company. One approach would be to host a part of the Infrastructure online with known vulnerabilities that would appear to be company assets. Which of the following describes this approach?

- A. Honeypot
- B. Watering hole
- C. Bug bounty
- D. DNS sinkhole

Answer: A

Explanation:

A honeypot is a security mechanism set up to attract and detect potential attackers by simulating vulnerable assets. By hosting a part of the infrastructure online with known vulnerabilities that appear to be company assets, the company can observe and analyze the behavior of attackers conducting reconnaissance. This approach allows the company to get alerts and gather intelligence on potential threats.

References = CompTIA Security+ SY0-701 study materials, particularly on threat detection techniques such as honeypots.

NEW QUESTION # 173

A certificate authority needs to post information about expired certificates. Which of the following would accomplish this task?

- A. CRL
- B. CSR
- C. PKI
- D. TPM

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 174

A group of developers has a shared backup account to access the source code repository. Which of the following is the best way to secure the backup account if there is an SSO failure?

- A. EAP
- B. RAS
- C. SAML
- D. PAM

Answer: D

Explanation:

Privileged Access Management (PAM) solutions enhance security by enforcing strong authentication, rotation of credentials, and access control for shared accounts. This is especially critical in scenarios like SSO failures.
