NEW QUESTION # 24

A human resources analyst is attempting to email the records for new employees to an outside payroll company. Each time the analyst sends an email containing employee records, the email is rejected with an error message. Other emails outside the company are sent correctly. Which of the following is MOST likely generating the error?

- A. Firewall rules
- B. Intrusion detection system
- C. DLP software
- D. DHCP configuration

Answer: C

Explanation:

DLP (Data Loss Prevention) software is a type of security software that monitors and controls the transfer of sensitive or confidential data outside the organization. DLP software can prevent data breaches, data leaks, or data theft by blocking, encrypting, or alerting on unauthorized data transfers. DLP software can be applied to various channels, such as email, web, cloud, or removable devices. In this scenario, the human resources analyst is attempting to email the records for new employees to an outside payroll company. The records for new employees may contain sensitive or confidential data, such as personal information, tax information, or bank account information. The DLP software may detect this data and block the email from being sent outside the company, as it may violate the company's data protection policy or regulations. The DLP software may also generate an error message to inform the analyst of the reason for the rejection.

NEW QUESTION # 25

Which of the following documents would explain the consequences of server downtime?

- A. Service-level agreement
- B. Business continuity plan
- C. Disaster recovery plan
- D. Business impact analysis

Answer: D

A business impact analysis (BIA) is a document that outlines the potential effects of downtime on business operations. It identifies critical business functions and estimates the impact of disruption on the organization's ability to function.

* Business impact analysis (Answer D): This document is specifically designed to assess the consequences of downtime and other disruptions.

* Service-level agreement (Option A): Defines the expected level of service between a provider and a client but doesn't directly explain downtime consequences.

* Business continuity plan (Option B): Outlines how the business will continue operating during a disruption but doesn't focus solely on the consequences of downtime.

* Disaster recovery plan (Option C): Focuses on restoring systems after a disaster but doesn't outline the specific impact of downtime.

CompTIA Server+ Reference: This topic relates to SK0-005 Objective 4.1: Explain disaster recovery concepts.

NEW QUESTION # 26

A server shut down after an extended power outage. When power was restored, the system failed to start. A few seconds into booting, the Num Lock, Scroll Lock, and Caps Lock LEDs flashed several times, and the system stopped. Which of the following is the MOST likely cause of the issue?

- A. The system failed before the display card initialized.
- B. The keyboard is defective and needs to be replaced.
- C. The NIC has failed, and the system cannot make a network connection.
- D. The power supply is faulty and is shutting down the system.

Answer: A

Explanation:

This is the most likely cause of the issue because the keyboard LED flash indicates a POST error code. If the display card is not initialized, the system cannot show any error messages on the screen and will stop booting. References:
