Google Cloud Digital Leader Sample Questions (Q395-Q400):

NEW QUESTION #395

Your ed-tech start-up was originally launched in a small geography. Any user sign-ups, course progress, tests taken, etc. are captured on a self-managed MySQL database. Every user generates many such transactions. Now you're taking the application globally and preparing for a much larger influx of users from all over the world. The existing MySQL server is unlikely to be able to scale. Which convenient option can be considered?

- A. Migrate to BigQuery
- B. Migrate to Bigtable
- C. Migrate to Cloud Spanner
- D. Migrate to Cloud SQL

Answer: C

Explanation:

Cloud Spanner is a global scale SQL database that scales extremely well. That would be the best choice.

NEW QUESTION #396

You are discussing scaling requirements with a gaming company. When the game launches, they are expecting incoming data surges of 2 million users or more during weekends and holidays. Their on-premise systems have had issues scaling and they want your advice on solving the issue. What do you recommend?

- A. We will allocate Kubernetes nodes estimating 80% capacity of 2 million users.
- B. We can deploy a Pub/Sub to ingest data which will grow to absorb demand and pass it on to other stages.
- C. We will allocate Compute Engine VMs estimating 80% capacity of 2 million users.
- D. Either Compute Engine VMs or Kubernetes nodes work, but it is better to keep a buffer of an extra 2 million users.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation

When there are huge surges in demand, it is preferable to use serverless technologies that automatically scale on demand. In this case, the key concern is data ingestion. Pub/Sub is a serverless system that can expand to absorb such demand.

NEW QUESTION #397

Your organization is developing and deploying an application on Google Cloud. Tracking your Google Cloud spending needs to stay as simple as possible.

What should you do to ensure that workloads in the development environment are fully isolated from production workloads?

- A. Associate the development resources with their own billing account
- B. Apply a unique tag to development resources
- C. Put the development resources in their own project
- D. Associate the development resources with their own network

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION #398

The government has mandated that companies in a particular section of healthcare must retain all the data they collect for a period of 10 years in case an audit needs to be done. Your client, who is in that industry, needs to follow regulations. In addition, your client wants to do an analysis of the data quite frequently in the first year. They also don't want to be liable for any data beyond year 10. What would recommend for your customer?

- A. Use Cloud Storage with standard storage in year one and Coldline storage there-after. Set a Cloud Tasks to trigger for 1 year to change storage types and 10 years to delete the data.
- B. Use Cloud Storage with standard storage in year one and archival storage thereaf-ter. Use Object lifecycle management to move between storage types and delete them after 10 years.
- C. Use Cloud Storage with standard storage in year one and Coldline storage there-after. Set a Cloud Scheduler trigger for 1 year to change storage types and 10 years to delete the data.
- D. Use Cloud Storage with nearline storage in year one and Coldline storage thereaf-ter. Use Object lifecycle management to move between storage types and delete them after 10 years.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Cloud storage supports Object Lifecycle Management. To support common use cases like setting a Time to Live (TTL) for objects, retaining noncurrent versions of objects, or "downgrading" storage classes of objects to help manage costs, Cloud Storage offers the Object Lifecycle Management feature.

Standard storage is recommended for frequently accessed data and Archive for data accessed less than once a year.

Nearline, Coldline, and Archive offer ultra-low-cost, highly-durable, highly available archival storage. For data accessed less than once a year, Archive is a cost-effective storage option for the long-term preservation of data. Coldline is also ideal for cold storage-data your business expects to touch less than once a quarter. For warmer storage, choose Nearline: data you expect to access less than once a month, but possibly multiple times throughout the year.

NEW OUESTION #399

An organization is training a machine learning model to predict extreme weather events in their country. How should they collect data to maximize prediction accuracy?

- A. Collect all weather data primarily from at-risk cities
- B. Collect all weather data evenly across all cities
- C. Collect extreme weather data evenly across all cities
- D. Collect extreme weather data primarily from at-risk cities

Answer: B

Explanation:

Collect all weather data evenly across all cities. Mainly because it seems that the emphasis for data collection for ML is to make sure there are no holes in your data collection.
