NCE-FAN doesn't support Local HA.

- A. False
- B. True

Answer: A

Explanation:

The statement is False. The NCE-FAN (Network Cloud Engine for Fixed Access Networks) does support Local High Availability (HA). Local HA ensures that the system remains operational even in the event of hardware or software failures, providing uninterrupted service delivery.

Key features of Local HA in NCE-FAN include:

- * Redundant Components: Critical components like control boards and power supplies are duplicated to prevent single points of failure.
 - * Failover Mechanism: If the primary component fails, the backup component takes over automatically, minimizing downtime.
 - * Data Synchronization: Real-time synchronization of configuration and operational data ensures seamless transitions during failover.
- Local HA is essential for carrier-grade networks where high availability is a top priority. It complements other redundancy mechanisms, such as distributed architectures and remote backups, to ensure robust network performance.
