GAQM Certified Business Continuity Professional (CBCP) Sample Questions (Q20-Q25):

NEW QUESTION # 20

Tolerating risk is where no action is taken to mitigate or reduce a risk.

- A. False
- B. True

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation

Tolerating risk is where no action is taken to mitigate or reduce a risk. This is true because tolerating risk is one of the possible strategies for managing risk. Tolerating risk means accepting or retaining a risk without taking any further action to reduce it, either because the risk level is acceptable or because the cost or effort of reducing it is not justified. Tolerating risk may be appropriate for low-priority or low-impact risks that do not pose a significant threat to the organization's objectives. Verified References:

NEW QUESTION # 21

Which control mechanism is the process by which an organization reduces the likelihood of a risk event occurring or mitigates the effects should it occur?

- A. Risk variation
- B. Risk avoidance
- C. Risk collision
- D. Risk control

Answer: D

Explanation:

Risk control is the control mechanism that is the process by which an organization reduces the likelihood of a risk event occurring or mitigates the effects should it occur. Risk control is the process of implementing measures or actions to modify or influence the risk level of an organization. Risk control can involve various strategies, such as avoidance, reduction, transfer, sharing, retention, or acceptance. Risk control can help to improve the organization's resilience and performance. NEW QUESTION # 22

Which of the following are three components of business continuity plan? (Choose three)

- A. Emergency response
- B. Business recovery
- C. Disaster recovery
- D. Problem management
- E. Incident management

Answer: A,C,E

Explanation:

Explanation

The three components of a business continuity plan are emergency response, incident management, and disaster recovery. They are:

Emergency response: This component involves the immediate actions taken to protect the life, health, and safety of people and the environment in the event of a disruption. Emergency response may include activating alarms, evacuating premises, contacting emergency services, or providing first aid.

Incident management: This component involves the coordination and communication of the activities and resources required to manage and resolve a disruption. Incident management may include activating the business continuity team, declaring a disaster, assessing the impact, activating the recovery strategies, or communicating with stakeholders.

Disaster recovery: This component involves the restoration and recovery of the IT systems, data, and infrastructure that support the critical functions and processes of the organization. Disaster recovery may include activating the backup systems, restoring the data, repairing or replacing the equipment, or testing the functionality. NEW QUESTION # 23

- A. Emergency response
- B. Incident management
- C. Disaster recovery
- D. Business recovery
- E. Problem management

Answer: A,C,D

Explanation:

A Business Continuity Plan (BCP) is designed to ensure an organization can maintain or resume critical functions during and after a disruption. According to Business Continuity Professional standards, such as those from DRI International and ISO 22301, the BCP typically encompasses three core components that address different phases of response and recovery:

* A. Emergency response: This component focuses on the immediate actions taken during a disruption (e.g., evacuation, safety measures, and initial coordination). It is a foundational part of the BCP, ensuring personnel and asset safety as a prerequisite to continuity and recovery efforts.

* B. Incident management: While incident management (handling and resolving incidents) is critical in broader crisis management frameworks, it is often considered a distinct process under an Incident Response Plan (IRP) rather than a core BCP component. It overlaps with BCP but is not universally listed as one of the three primary elements.

* C. Problem management: This is an IT service management process (e.g., under ITIL) focused on identifying and resolving the root causes of incidents. It is not a standard component of a BCP, which prioritizes continuity and recovery over long-term problem resolution.

* D. Business recovery: This involves restoring critical business functions and processes after a disruption, ensuring the organization can resume normal operations. It is a central pillar of the BCP, addressing recovery time objectives (RTOs) and operational continuity.

* E. Disaster recovery: This focuses on recovering IT systems, data, and infrastructure following a disaster. Often integrated into the BCP, it ensures technological continuity, making it a key component alongside business recovery and emergency response.

The verified answer is A. Emergency response, D. Business recovery, E. Disaster recovery, as these three components collectively cover the lifecycle of a BCP—immediate response, business function restoration, and IT recovery—per established standards. While incident management is related, it is typically supplementary rather than a core BCP element when narrowed to three components.

References:

* DRI International Professional Practices for Business Continuity Management (2023), Section 6:

Business Continuity Plan Development - Identifies emergency response, business recovery, and disaster recovery as key BCP components.

* ISO 22301:2019, Clause 8.4 - Outlines planning for response (emergency), continuity (business recovery), and IT recovery (disaster recovery) as integral to BCP.

NEW QUESTION # 24

Which type of management is an often used term, but has so many different connotations to different people that invariably the message of its meaning gets confused?

- A. Strategic
- B. Technical
- C. Operational
- D. Functional

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation

Strategic management is the type of management that is an often used term, but has so many different connotations to different people that invariably the message of its meaning gets confused. Strategic management is the process of defining and executing the long-term vision, goals, plans, and actions of an organization. Strategic management involves analyzing the internal and external environment, formulating strategies, implementing them, and evaluating their outcomes. Strategic management can be complex and challenging, as it requires alignment and integration of various aspects of the organization, such as culture, structure, resources, capabilities, stakeholders, markets, competitors, or regulations.
