NEW QUESTION # 23

How would you reference the "name" value of the second instance of this resource?

- A. `aws_instance_web(1).name`
- B. `element(aws_instance.web, 2)`
- C. `aws_instance-web(1)`
- D. `Aws_instance.web,* , name`
- E. `aws_instance.web(2).name`

Answer: A

Explanation:

In Terraform, when you use the count meta-argument, you can reference individual instances using an index. The indexing starts at 0, so to reference the "name" value of the second instance, you would use `aws_instance.web[1].name`. This syntax allows you to access the properties of specific instances in a list generated by the count argument.

- A. Run `terraform validate` prior to executing `terraform plan` or `terraform apply`
- B. Use `terraform fmt`
- C. Replace all tabs with spaces
- D. Terraform automatically formats configuration on `terraform apply`

Answer: B

Explanation:

The `terraform fmt` command is used to format Terraform configuration files to a canonical format and style.

This ensures that all team members are using a consistent style, making the code easier to read and maintain. It automatically applies Terraform's standard formatting conventions to your configuration files, helping maintain consistency across the team's codebase.

Answer:

Explanation:

Terraform.tfstate

Explanation:

The name of the default file where Terraform stores the state is terraform.tfstate. This file contains a JSON representation of the current state of the infrastructure managed by Terraform.
