Salesforce Platform Developer I (PDI) Sample Questions (Q101-Q106):

NEW QUESTION # 101
What are two characteristics related to formulas?
Choose 2 answers

- A. Formulas can reference values in related objects.
- B. Formulas can reference themselves.
- C. Formulas are calculated at runtime and are not stored in the database.
- D. Fields that are used in a formula field can be deleted or edited without editing the formula.

Answer: A,C

Explanation:
When working with formula fields in Salesforce, it's important to understand their characteristics and limitations.
Option A: Formulas are calculated at runtime and are not stored in the database.
True.
Formula fields are calculated dynamically whenever the record is accessed.
The value is not stored in the database; instead, it is computed on-the-fly based on the formula definition.
Formula fields can reference fields on related parent objects via lookup or master-detail relationships.
This allows formulas to display data from related records.
Formulas cannot reference themselves directly or indirectly.
Doing so would create a circular reference, which is not allowed.
If a field used in a formula is deleted, the formula becomes invalid.
If a field is edited (e.g., data type change), it may impact the formula's validity.

Incorrect Options:
Option B: Formulas can reference themselves.
False.
Formula Field Limitations
Option D: Fields that are used in a formula field can be deleted or edited without editing the formula.
False.

Answer: B,D

NEW QUESTION # 105
Consider the following code snippet:

```
public static List<Lead> obtainAllFields(Set<Id> leadIds){ List<Lead> result = new List<Lead>();
    for(Id leadId : leadIds){ result.add([SELECT FIELDS(STANDARD) FROM Lead WHERE Id = :leadId]); return result;
    }
}
```

Given the multi-tenant architecture of the Salesforce platform, what is a best practice a developer should implement and ensure successful execution of the method?

- A. Avoid returning an empty List of records.
- B. Avoid using variables as query filters.
- C. Avoid executing queries without a limit clause.
- D. Avoid performing queries inside for loops.

Answer: D

Explanation:
* Performing queries inside a loop can lead to governor limit exceptions due to too many SOQL queries in a single transaction. Instead, perform queries outside loops.
