NEW QUESTION # 130

Transportation industry is one of the key industries Huawei CloudWAN solution and products focus on. Which is not the railway services and market opportunities for routers?

- A. Vehicle-ground communication network
- B. Integrated information network
- C. Interconnection load balancing between backbone clouds
- D. Railway signal bearer network

Answer: C

Explanation:

Huawei's CloudWAN solutions target various railway services and market opportunities. Below is an analysis of each option:

* Integrated information network : This refers to the unified network infrastructure that integrates multiple railway systems, such as passenger information, ticketing, and security. It is a key focus area for Huawei routers.

* Vehicle-ground communication network : This involves communication between trains and ground stations, enabling real-time monitoring, diagnostics, and control. It is a critical railway service supported by Huawei routers.

* Interconnection load balancing between backbone clouds : This is more relevant to cloud data center interconnections rather than railway-specific services. It is not a primary focus for railway services.

* Railway signal bearer network : This refers to the network that carries signaling and control information for safe train operations. It is a core railway service supported by Huawei routers.

Thus, the correct answer is C , as interconnection load balancing between backbone clouds is not directly related to railway services.
