UiPath Certified Professional Automation Business Analyst Professional v1.0 Sample Questions (Q58-Q63):

NEW QUESTION # 58

What is the main goal of conducting a feasibility study during the business analysis phase for RPA?

- A. To identify potential cost savings and revenue opportunities
- B. To evaluate the technical feasibility of the automation solution
- C. To design the automation solution
- D. To understand the current state of the business process

Answer: B

Explanation:

The main goal of conducting a feasibility study during the business analysis phase for RPA is to evaluate the technical feasibility of the automation solution. This involves assessing whether the processes in question can be automated using RPA technology, and if so, how effectively. It includes examining the nature of each step and activity performed by the operation user, validating whether the process is rule-based or requires additional decisions or analysis, and determining the complexity, volume of transactions, technology landscape, development efforts, data size, and information flow. The feasibility study ensures that the process is suitable for automation and helps in identifying any manual interventions that might be needed during the process¹.

References: The importance of a feasibility study in RPA is discussed in various resources, including the V-Soft Consulting blog, which provides insights into the process examination and technical feasibility as key components of the RPA automation framework¹.

NEW QUESTION # 59

What is the purpose of an AS-IS diagram?

- A. Maps how the process should look after standardization
- B. Maps how the process should look after being automated
- C. Maps out the current state of a business process
- D. Maps out all the processes that must be automated

Answer: C

Explanation:

An AS-IS diagram is a visual representation that maps out the current state of a business process. It is used to document the existing process as it is currently performed, step by step, screen by screen, usually by a human operator. The AS-IS diagram is crucial for understanding the current workflow, identifying inefficiencies, bottlenecks, and areas for improvement. It serves as the baseline for any process automation or optimization efforts, including those undertaken with UiPath's Robotic Process Automation (RPA) tools¹².

NEW QUESTION # 60

When starting a project with UiPath Process Mining, you can leverage already created applications to shorten the delivery time of a project. What are three out-of-the-box app templates available in UiPath Process Mining repository that you can deploy for a project?

- A. Purchase-to-Pay for SAP, Order-to-Cash for Oracle JDE, Lead-to-Order for Salesforce
- B. Incident Management for Service Now, TemplateOne-SingleFile for any source system, Mortgage Loans for Oracle Cloud
- C. Purchase-to-Pay for any source system, Warehouse Management for SAP, Mortgage Loans for Oracle Cloud
- D. Lead Management for Salesforce Pardot, Data Warehouse for SAP, Incident Management for ServiceNow

Answer: A

Explanation:

UiPath Process Mining provides a variety of out-of-the-box app templates that can be used as a starting point for creating process applications. These templates are designed to work with specific source systems and can be customized to fit business needs. The templates include a set of dashboards and KPIs to enable business users to monitor and analyze the processes in detail. The correct options from the given choices are:

*Purchase-to-Pay for SAP: This app template is designed for the SAP source system and can be extracted using Theobald Xtract Universal.

*Order-to-Cash for Oracle JDE: This template is suitable for the Oracle JDE source system and uses CData Sync for data extraction.

*Lead-to-Order for Salesforce: This app template is tailored for the Salesforce source system and also relies on CData Sync for data extraction.

These templates are part of the process-specific app templates for specific source systems available in the UiPath Process Mining repository.

References: The information is verified as per the UiPath Process Mining documentation on app templates available at the UiPath Documentation Portal.

NEW QUESTION # 61

Which types of changes can occur post-implementation in an automation project?

- A. Changes include adding new steps, removing existing steps, modifying existing steps or changing the order of executing steps.
- B. Changes include requests that result from increasing the percentage of automation, improvements to the existing automation, bug fixing, or gaps in the documentation, discovered after Go-Live.
- C. Changes include new reports or dashboards, changes to existing reports and new logs.
- D. Changes include new initiatives, or future changes on the process that have been approved for automation.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Post-implementation, automation projects often undergo iterative refinements. These include requests to expand the automation coverage, optimize the process, fix issues, or fill documentation gaps.

"After Go-Live, it's common to have change requests for enhancements, bug fixes, and updates that improve the stability and performance of the automation." These are part of the continuous improvement cycle in automation programs.

NEW QUESTION # 62

What are some business scenarios in which I will use transaction processing?

- A. You want to create an informative infographic to illustrate annual sales data.
- B. You need to create a formal proposal for a new project initiative for your company.
- C. You need to read data from several invoices that are in a folder, and input that data into another system.
- D. You need to develop a company-wide newsletter with different articles and fonts.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Definition of Transaction Processing: It involves handling individual transactions, such as reading data from inputs and processing them through a series of actions.

Example Scenario: Processing invoices stored in a folder and inputting them into another system is a classic transaction-based activity. Each invoice represents a transaction that requires specific operations.

Relevance in Automation: UiPath facilitates such tasks by using workflows and queue management to streamline and automate transaction processing, reducing manual effort and error.

Non-Applicability of Other Options: The other options (A, B, C) involve creative or strategic tasks, which are not suited for transactional processing.
