CompTIA Security+ Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q500-Q505):

NEW QUESTION # 500

Which of the following is the best reason to complete an audit in a banking environment?

- A. Service-level requirement
- B. Regulatory requirement
- C. Self-assessment requirement
- D. Organizational change

Answer: B

Explanation:

A regulatory requirement is a mandate imposed by a government or an authority that must be followed by an organization or an individual. In a banking environment, audits are often required by regulators to ensure compliance with laws, standards, and policies related to security, privacy, and financial reporting. Audits help to identify and correct any gaps or weaknesses in the security posture and the internal controls of the organization.

NEW QUESTION # 501

Which of the following vulnerabilities is exploited when an attacker overwrites a register with a malicious address?

* VM escape

- A. Buffer overflow
- B. SQL injection
- C. Race condition

Answer: C

Explanation:

A buffer overflow is a vulnerability that occurs when an application writes more data to a memory buffer than it can hold, causing the excess data to overwrite adjacent memory locations. A register is a small storage area in the CPU that holds temporary data or instructions. An attacker can exploit a buffer overflow to overwrite a register with a malicious address that points to a shellcode, which is a piece of code that gives the attacker control over the system. By doing so, the attacker can bypass the normal execution flow of the application and execute arbitrary commands.

NEW QUESTION # 502

A security analyst is prioritizing vulnerability scan results using a risk-based approach. Which of the following is the most efficient resource for the analyst to use?

- A. Exposure factor
- B. Risk register
- C. Business impact analysis
- D. Common Vulnerability Scoring System

Answer: D

Explanation:

The Common Vulnerability Scoring System (CVSS) is a standardized framework for assessing the severity of vulnerabilities. It provides a numerical score (0-10) based on factors such as exploitability, impact, and complexity, helping security analysts prioritize remediation efforts based on risk.

* Business impact analysis (A) helps identify critical business functions but does not specifically prioritize vulnerabilities.

* Risk register (C) tracks identified risks but does not classify vulnerabilities.

* Exposure factor (D) is used in quantitative risk assessment but is not an industry standard for vulnerability prioritization.

NEW QUESTION # 503

Which of the following describes the process of concealing code or text inside a graphical image?

- A. Steganography
- B. Hashing
- C. Symmetric encryption
- D. Data masking

Answer: A

Explanation:

Steganography is the process of hiding information within another medium, such as an image, audio, video, or text file. The hidden information is not visible or noticeable to the casual observer, and can only be extracted by using a specific technique or key.

Steganography can be used for various purposes, such as concealing secret messages, watermarking, or evading detection by antivirus software. 12

NEW QUESTION # 504

A security team created a document that details the order in which critical systems should be brought back online after a major outage. Which of the following documents did the team create?

- A. Disaster recovery plan
- B. Communication plan
- C. Data retention policy
- D. Incident response plan

Answer: A

Explanation:

The document described in the question is a Disaster Recovery Plan (DRP). A DRP outlines the process and procedures for restoring critical systems and operations after a major disruption or outage. It includes the order in which systems should be brought back online to ensure minimal impact on business operations, prioritizing the most critical systems to recover first.
