CompTIA A+ Certification Exam: Core 1 Sample Questions (Q207-Q212):

NEW QUESTION # 207

Which of the following display characteristics would be most important to ensure screen images appear the same as printed output?

- A. Refresh rate
- B. Pixel density
- C. Color gamut
- D. Resolution

Answer: C

Explanation:

Color gamut refers to the range of colors a display can accurately reproduce. For tasks like graphic design or photo editing, ensuring the screen's colors match the printed output is critical. Monitors with wide and accurate color gamuts (e.g., Adobe RGB) are preferred for these applications.

Option B (Pixel density): Incorrect. Pixel density affects image sharpness, not color accuracy.

Option C (Refresh rate): Incorrect. Refresh rate impacts motion smoothness but is unrelated to color matching.

Option D (Resolution): Incorrect. Resolution determines clarity and detail but does not influence color accuracy.

NEW QUESTION # 208

A user is testing a new OS that is contained on a USB drive. The user wants the new OS to load automatically when the computer is turned on. Which of the following should the user configure?

- A. Trusted Platform Module
- B. BIOS password
- C. USB permissions
- D. Boot options

Answer: D

Explanation:

To boot from a USB drive, the user must configure the boot order in the system BIOS/UEFI to prioritize the USB device. This setting tells the computer to load the operating system from the USB device on startup.

From CompTIA A+ 220-1101 Official Study Guide, Objective 3.5 - Configure BIOS/UEFI settings:

"The boot order determines the sequence in which the system firmware attempts to find an OS to boot. Setting USB as the first boot device allows the computer to boot from a USB drive." Verified Source:
