- A. `gs.log()`
- B. `g_form.addInfoMessage()`
- C. `gs.addErrorMessage()`
- D. `jslog()`

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Step-by-Step Explanation:

* Valid Options for Debugging:

* `g_form.addInfoMessage()`: This method displays an informational message on the form, which is useful for providing immediate feedback to the user or debugging purposes. Example:

`g_form.addInfoMessage('This is a test message.');`

* `jslog()`: This method logs messages to the browser's JavaScript console, which is an essential tool for debugging client-side scripts.

Example:

`jslog('Debugging message: Variable X = ' + x);`

* Incorrect Options Explained:

* `gs.addErrorMessage()` (Option B): This is a server-side method and cannot be used in client-side scripts.

* `gs.log()` (Option D): Similarly, this is a server-side method and is not applicable for debugging client-side scripts.
