Google Cloud Digital Leader Sample Questions (Q301-Q306):

NEW QUESTION # 301

An organization needs to store structured, semi-structured, and unstructured data in its raw, native format in the same repository. Which cloud data management solution should the organization use?

- A. Data warehouse
- B. Data field
- C. Database
- D. Data lake

Answer: D

Explanation:

A data lake can store all types of data with no fixed limitation on account size or file and with no specific purpose defined yet. The data comes from disparate sources and can be structured, semi-structured, or even unstructured. Data-lake data can be queried as needed.

<https://cloud.google.com/learn/what-is-a-data-lake>

A data lake is a centralized repository designed to store, process, and secure large amounts of structured, semistructured, and unstructured data. It can store data in its native format and process any variety of it, ignoring size limits.

NEW QUESTION # 302

An organization runs their application on a virtual machine, but every time they want to edit specific features, they have to bring the system offline to update the application. What would be a more appropriate solution for their app?

- A. Solid State Disk
- B. GPUs
- C. Containers
- D. Hypervisors

Answer: C

Explanation:

Because containers can compartmentalize applications which enables parts to be edited in isolation.

NEW QUESTION # 303

An organization has petabytes of data gathered from a wide range of sources. They want to use the data for strategic analysis and to guide business decisions. What type of service should they use*?

- A. Relational transactional database
- B. Non-relational document database
- C. Data warehouse
- D. Object store

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 304

A cinema company wants to build a model to predict customer visit patterns for the coming year. They have three years of customer visit data across 300 theaters; however, the data has been stored in different formats by different theaters. They must train the ML model. What should they do?

- A. Use the last year of data so there are fewer inconsistencies for the model to handle.
- B. Group different format types and train a different model for each group.
- C. Transform the data into a consistent format.
- D. Choose an ML model type that can process different formats of input data.

Answer: C

Explanation:

The correct answer is B. Transform the data into a consistent format. Here's why:

Context of the Question: The cinema company wants to build a machine learning model to predict customer visit patterns using three years of customer visit data stored in different formats. For effective ML model training, the input data must be in a consistent format.

Google Cloud Product Relevance:

To build a robust and accurate ML model, the data used for training needs to be cleaned, pre-processed, and transformed into a consistent format. This process ensures that the model can interpret and learn from the data correctly.

Google Cloud provides services like Dataflow for data transformation and processing, and Dataprep for data cleaning and preparation. These tools help standardize data formats before feeding it into a machine learning model.

Why Not Other Options:

A . Choose an ML model type that can process different formats of input data: Most ML models require data to be in a uniform format; choosing a model that processes multiple formats is not standard practice and can lead to inaccuracies.

C . Use the last year of data so there are fewer inconsistencies for the model to handle: This would limit the amount of data available for training, reducing the model's accuracy and effectiveness.

D . Group different format types and train a different model for each group: Training multiple models for different data formats is inefficient and complex compared to transforming the data into a single consistent format.

Google Cloud Digital Leader Reference:

Refer to Dataflow and Dataprep documentation for details on data transformation and preparation services in Google Cloud.

NEW QUESTION # 305

What is an example of structured data that a healthcare facility stores in their system?

- A. Physician-written notes
- B. Blood pressure history
- C. Surgery video recordings
- D. X-ray images

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation

Physical measures like height, weight, blood pressure, blood type, and stage of the disease can be recorded numerically and they are structured.
