CompTIA A+ Certification Exam: Core 1 Sample Questions (Q486-Q491):

NEW QUESTION # 486

A team is having Issues With paper jams on a printer that the team shares With other teams. The team that IS having Issues prints legal-sized documents, and the other teams print letter-sized documents. Which of the following is most likely the issue?

- A. Worn rollers
- B. Tray settings
- C. Multipage misfeed
- D. Page orientation

Answer: B

Explanation:

The most likely issue is C. Tray settings.

Tray settings are the configuration options that tell the printer what type and size of paper is loaded in each tray. If the tray settings do not match the actual paper loaded, it can cause paper jams, misalignment, or incorrect printing. For example, if the printer expects letter-sized paper (8.5 x 11 inches) but the tray contains legal-sized paper (8.5 x 14 inches), the printer may try to pull more paper than it needs, resulting in a jam.

To fix this issue, the team should check and adjust the tray settings according to the paper they are using.

They should also make sure that the paper is loaded correctly and not overfilled or mixed with different sizes or types of paper.

Some printers have a manual feed option that allows users to select the paper size and type before printing, which can prevent paper jams from occurring.

NEW QUESTION # 487

A technician is troubleshooting an issue involving lines appearing down copied pages, but printed pages sent directly to the copier render as intended. Which of the following is the MOST likely cause of this issue?

- A. Third-party toner
- B. Scratched scanner glass
- C. Overheated system fuser
- D. Empty imager drum

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation

If lines appear down copied pages but printed pages sent directly to copier render as intended, it could be due to scratched scanner glass which can cause lines or streaks on copied pages.

If there are lines appearing on copied pages, but not on printed pages sent directly to the copier, the issue is most likely caused by a scratch on the scanner glass. References:

NEW QUESTION # 488

A help desk technician thinks a desktop PC has failed due to a defective power supply. Which of the following steps should the technician take NEXT?

- A. Document the findings, actions, and outcomes.
- B. Conduct external or internal research based on symptoms.
- C. Establish a plan of action to resolve the problem and implement the solution.
- D. Inquire about environmental or infrastructure changes.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Explanation

Once the technician has determined that the power supply is likely to be defective, they should establish a plan of action to resolve the problem. This may include replacing the power supply or further testing to confirm that it is indeed defective. After establishing a plan of action, the technician should implement the solution and verify that it has resolved the issue.

NEW QUESTION # 489

A technician is working to connect an RS-232 serial signature pad to a customer's ultralightweight laptop.

Which of the following should the technician use to install the device?

- A. Wi-Fi Direct
- B. Port replicator
- C. Hotspot
- D. USB-C cable

Answer: D

Explanation:

A USB-C cable is the best option for installing an RS-232 serial signature pad to an ultralightweight laptop.

USB-C is a universal connector that supports various protocols and devices, including serial devices. A port replicator is a device that expands the connectivity options of a laptop by providing additional ports. Wi-Fi Direct is a wireless technology that allows devices to connect directly without a router or access point. Hotspot is a feature that allows a device to share its internet connection with other devices via Wi-Fi, Bluetooth, or USB.

NEW QUESTION # 490

A technician needs to recommend an internet connection for a customer who travels around the world and wants to have connectivity while visiting remote camping locations. Some of the locations the customer visits have limited or unreliable cellular service. Which of the following connection types should the technician recommend?

- A. Fiber
- B. Hotspot
- C. Satellite
- D. DSL

Answer: C

Explanation:

The connection type that the technician should recommend is Satellite. Satellite internet is a good option for people who travel around the world and want to have connectivity while visiting remote camping locations. It works by using terminals which can give you internet access in remote locations as long as they have a line of sight to the satellite in orbit above.

Since the customer travels to remote camping locations with limited or unreliable cellular service, the best recommendation is satellite internet connection. Satellite internet uses a dish to connect to satellites orbiting the earth, which can provide coverage anywhere in the world as long as there is a clear line of sight to the satellite. This is especially useful in remote areas where traditional terrestrial connections are not available.
