```

Which of the following would BEST mitigate this type of attack?

- A. Installing a network firewall
- B. Placing a WAF inline
- C. Implementing an IDS
- D. Deploying a honeypot

Answer: B

Explanation:

The output shows a SQL injection attack that is trying to exploit a web application. A WAF (Web Application Firewall) is a security solution that can detect and block malicious web requests, such as SQL injection, XSS, CSRF, etc. Placing a WAF inline would prevent the attack from reaching the web server and database. NEW QUESTION # 506

Which of the following processes involves searching and collecting evidence during an investigation or lawsuit?

- A. E-discovery
- B. Chain of custody
- C. Information governance
- D. Review analysis

Answer: A

Explanation:

The process that involves searching and collecting evidence during an investigation or lawsuit is e-discovery. E-discovery stands for electronic discovery, which is the process of identifying, preserving, collecting, processing, reviewing, analyzing, and producing electronically stored information (ESI) that is relevant to a legal matter. E-discovery can be used for civil litigation, criminal prosecution, regulatory compliance, internal investigations, and other purposes. E-discovery can help parties obtain evidence from various sources, such as emails, documents, databases, social media, cloud services, mobile devices, and others.
