NEW QUESTION # 648

Third-party assessments that highlight events, behaviors, and practices that may lead to reputational and business risks and opportunities are best classified as:

- A. advisory services
- B. integrated research
- C. ESG news and controversy alerts

Answer: C

Explanation:

Third-party assessments that highlight events, behaviors, and practices that may lead to reputational and business risks and opportunities are best classified as ESG news and controversy alerts.

Purpose of Alerts: ESG news and controversy alerts provide real-time information on incidents that could affect a company's reputation and financial performance. These alerts help investors stay informed about potential risks and opportunities arising from a company's ESG practices.

Types of Information: These alerts often cover a wide range of issues, including environmental incidents, labor disputes, governance failures, and other controversial activities.

Risk Management: By monitoring ESG news and controversies, investors can respond promptly to emerging risks and adjust their investment strategies accordingly.

NEW QUESTION # 649

Collective engagements:

- A. Are a preliminary step in launching a takeover bid for a company
- B. Often are resource-inefficient methods of engagement
- C. Are sometimes constrained by regulations regarding investors acting in concert

Answer: C

Explanation:

Collective engagement occurs when multiple investors collaborate to engage with a company on ESG-related concerns. However, in some jurisdictions, such engagements may trigger regulations that prohibit investors from acting in concert without proper disclosure.

For example, in the EU and UK, financial regulations (e.g., UK Takeover Code) state that if investors are perceived to be coordinating actions, they may be subject to legal restrictions, particularly concerning takeover rules or shareholder activism guidelines.

- C. The EU Taxonomy Regulation

Answer: A

Explanation:

The EU Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation (SFDR) requires asset managers to disclose ESG risks in investment decisions, promoting transparency on sustainability factors. It applies to all financial market participants in the EU.

A portfolio approach in which bottom-up analysis is complemented with consideration of ESG factors, resulting in a relatively concentrated portfolio, is best described as:

- A. Discretionary
- B. Index-based
- C. Systematic

Answer: A

Explanation:

A discretionary ESG investment strategy is characterized by active selection, where the portfolio manager uses bottom-up analysis complemented with ESG factors to make decisions about individual investments. This strategy often leads to a concentrated portfolio because of the selective nature of investment choices. Discretionary ESG strategies differ from index-based or systematic approaches, which are more passive and structured.
