OCPE Pesticide Applicator Category 7A General and Household Pest Control Exam Sample Questions (Q27-Q32):

NEW QUESTION # 27

The ____ tick is responsible for transmitting Lyme disease in New Jersey.

- A. Blacklegged
- B. Lone star
- C. Dog

Answer: A

Explanation:

The blacklegged tick (Ixodes scapularis), also known as the deer tick, is the primary vector for Lyme disease in New Jersey. The General Pest Management: Guide for Commercial Applicators - Category 7A (Chapter 7: Ticks) identifies this species as the main transmitter in the northeastern U.S. Option A (dog tick) transmits other diseases like Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever. Option B (lone star tick) is associated with other illnesses, not Lyme disease.

NEW QUESTION # 28

FIRST AID for TEMPRID if swallowed includes:

- A. Giving sips of water even if victim is unconscious
- B. Sipping water if conscious but no induced vomiting unless told to do so by poison control center or doctor
- C. Inducing vomiting if conscious

Answer: B

Explanation:

The TEMPRID SC label provides first aid instructions: if swallowed, the victim should sip water if conscious, but vomiting should not be induced unless directed by a poison control center or doctor. This aligns with standard pesticide safety protocols in the General Pest Management: Guide for Commercial Applicators - Category 7A (Chapter 3: Pesticide Safety). Option A (inducing vomiting) can be dangerous without professional guidance. Option B (giving water if unconscious) is incorrect, as no liquids should be given to an unconscious person.

NEW QUESTION # 29

Carbamate and pyrethroid pesticides are:

- A. Nerve poisons
- B. Stomach/digestive poisons
- C. Nonpoisonous

Answer: A

Explanation:

Carbamate and pyrethroid pesticides are both classes of insecticides that act as nerve poisons. They target the nervous system of pests, disrupting nerve function and leading to paralysis and death.

Carbamates inhibit cholinesterase enzymes, while pyrethroids affect sodium channels in nerve cells.

This is detailed in the General Pest Management: Guide for Commercial Applicators - Category 7A (Chapter 6: Pesticide Types).

Option A (stomach/digestive poisons) is incorrect, as these pesticides primarily act through contact or inhalation, not ingestion.

Option B (nonpoisonous) is incorrect, as both are toxic to pests and potentially harmful to humans if mishandled.

NEW QUESTION # 30

Bedbugs go through:

- A. Gradual metamorphosis (nymphs similar to adult stage)
- B. Just two stages (egg and adult)
- C. Four distinct stages of development (egg, larva, pupa, and adult)

Answer: A

Explanation:

Bedbugs undergo gradual metamorphosis, also known as incomplete metamorphosis, which includes three stages: egg, nymph, and adult. Nymphs resemble smaller versions of adults and go through several molts before reaching maturity. The General Pest Management: Guide for Commercial Applicators - Category 7A (Chapter 7: Bedbugs) confirms this life cycle. Option A (four stages: egg, larva, pupa, adult) describes complete metamorphosis, typical of insects like beetles, not bedbugs. Option C (two stages) is incorrect, as nymph stages are a critical part of bedbug development.

NEW QUESTION # 31

____ toxicity has become an important issue to pesticide applicators based on their repeated use or exposure to pesticides.

- A. Acute
- B. Chronic
- C. Periodic

Answer: B

Explanation:

Chronic toxicity refers to the adverse effects of long-term, repeated exposure to a pesticide, which is a significant concern for applicators who handle pesticides regularly. This can lead to health issues like cancer, neurological disorders, or reproductive problems, as noted in the General Pest Management: Guide for Commercial Applicators - Category 7A (Chapter 3: Pesticide Safety). Option B (acute toxicity) refers to effects from a single, high-dose exposure, which is less relevant to repeated use. Option C (periodic) is not a recognized term in toxicology.

.....
