Oracle CX Sales 2024 Implementation Professional Sample Questions (Q334-Q339):

NEW QUESTION # 334

Data Management is a feature in Oracle Profitability and Cost Management Cloud Service that allows users to load, validate, map, and transform data. It does not specifically allow for the creation of reports with multiple data dimensions and various data sources. Option 4: Incorrect. Scorecarding is a feature in Oracle Profitability and Cost Management Cloud Service that allows users to define objectives, metrics, and targets to monitor performance. It does not specifically allow for the creation of reports with multiple data dimensions and various data sources.

- A. Data Manipulation

- B. Dimension Management
- C. Data Load
- D. Allocation

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 335

Which of the following user groups should be granted the ability to manage applications and artifacts in Oracle Profitability and Cost Management Cloud Service?

- A. Data Entry Users
- B. System Administrators
- C. Application Managers
- D. Power Users

Answer: C

Explanation:

Option 1: System Administrators should not be granted the ability to manage applications and artifacts as their role is to manage the overall system. Option 2: Application Managers are the correct user group to be granted the ability to manage applications and artifacts in Oracle Profitability and Cost Management Cloud Service. Option 3: Power Users should also not be granted this ability, as they have the ability to create and modify data in the system but do not have the ability to manage applications and artifacts. Option 4: Data Entry Users should not have this ability as their role is to solely input data into the system.

NEW QUESTION # 336

Which of the following statements is true about loading data in the Oracle Profitability and Cost Management Cloud Service?

- A. You can only load data into one dimension at a time using the Data Integration File Import Utility.
- B. You can only load data into one dimension at a time by manually entering data in the web interface.
- C. You can load data into multiple dimensions simultaneously by using a rule file.
- D. You can load data into multiple dimensions simultaneously by using the Data Integration Cloud

Answer: C

Explanation:

Option 1: Correct: In Oracle Profitability and Cost Management Cloud Service, you can load data into multiple dimensions simultaneously by using a rule file. The rule file specifies the mapping between the source data and the target dimensions and members. Option 2: Incorrect: The statement is incorrect. In Oracle Profitability and Cost Management Cloud Service, you can load data into multiple dimensions simultaneously by using a rule file. The Data Integration File Import Utility allows you to load data into multiple dimensions at once. Option 3: Incorrect: The statement is incorrect. The Data Integration Cloud is not used to load data into Oracle Profitability and Cost Management Cloud Service. Instead, you can use the Data Integration File Import Utility to load data into multiple dimensions simultaneously. Option 4: Incorrect: The statement is incorrect. While you can manually enter data in the web interface of Oracle Profitability and Cost Management Cloud Service, it is not the only way to load data. You can also use the Data Integration File Import Utility to load data into multiple dimensions simultaneously.

NEW QUESTION # 337

When running an allocation in Oracle Profitability and Cost Management Cloud Service, which of the following options will allow for greater control over the allocation process?

- A. Using method 'Spread data from one or more dimensions to one or more dimensions' with static member selections
- B. Using method 'Spread data from one or more dimensions to one or more dimensions' with dynamic member selections
- C. Using method 'Spread data from one or more members to one or more members'
- D. Using method 'Spread data from one or more cells to one or more dimensions'

Answer: B

Explanation:

Option 1: This option is incorrect because using static member selections will not allow for dynamic changes to the allocation and does not provide flexibility for future changes to dimension members. Option 2: This option is correct because using dynamic member selection allows for greater control and flexibility over the allocation process, enabling end-users to dynamically select a set of dimension members for allocation and modifying these selections as needed. This method is the most common practice and is recommended for allocation processes that require maximum user flexibility and dynamic control. Option 3: This option is incorrect because using the 'Spread data from one or more members to one or more members' is generally less flexible than other methods because dimension members are pre-specified. Option 4: This option is incorrect because using the 'Spread data from one or more cells to one or more dimensions' is generally limited in its flexibility and control as it requires data to be loaded from pre-defined cells rather than dynamically selecting a set of dimension members.

NEW QUESTION # 338

In Oracle Profitability and Cost Management Cloud Service, what is the purpose of a dimensionality tag?

- A. To map and flatten data hierarchies
- B. To assign rules and calculations to specific data points
- C. To aggregate and group data for analysis purposes
- D. To track changes made to data over time

Answer: B

Explanation:

Option 1: Incorrect: Dimensionality tags are not used for aggregation or grouping. This is typically done through dimensions and members within the application. Option 2: Incorrect: While dimensionality tags can be used to map and flatten data hierarchies in some cases, this is not their primary purpose. Option 3: Correct: Dimensionality tags are used to assign rules and calculations to specific data points. This allows for more granular control over how data is processed and calculated within the application. Option 4: Incorrect: Dimensionality tags do not track changes made to data over time. This is typically done through the application's audit log functionality or a separate version control system.
